STUDENTS COUNSELLING CELL ANNUAL ACTIVITY REPORT Academic Year 2025–2026

Introduction

The Students Counselling Cell of St. Ann's College for Women, Gorantla, Guntur, functions as a vital support system for promoting students' emotional well-being, mental health, academic success, and personal growth. The Cell strives to create a positive and inclusive campus environment where students can seek guidance, develop resilience, and overcome personal and academic challenges. During the academic year 2025–2026, the Counselling Cell organized various awareness programmes, counselling sessions, mentoring activities, and wellness initiatives to nurture confident, responsible, and emotionally balanced young women.

Objectives

- To provide professional guidance and emotional support to students.
- To promote positive mental health and psychological well-being.
- To help students cope with academic stress and personal challenges.
- To enhance self-confidence, interpersonal skills, and emotional resilience.
- To encourage healthy relationships, ethical behaviour, and responsible citizenship.
- To support students in achieving their academic, personal, and career goals.

Major Activities Conducted During the Academic Year 2025–2026

Student Induction and Counselling Awareness Programme

At the beginning of the academic year, orientation sessions were conducted for newly admitted students to familiarize them with the counselling services available on campus. The students were introduced to the mentoring system, student support services, grievance redressal mechanisms, and welfare initiatives provided by the institution.

Individual Counselling and Student Support

Throughout the academic year, individual counselling sessions were provided to students requiring guidance and support. The counselling addressed concerns related to academic difficulties, examination anxiety, personal issues, adjustment problems, self-esteem, peer relationships, and future career planning. Confidential counselling helped students overcome challenges and improve their overall well-being.

Mental Health and Emotional Wellness Awareness Programmes

The Counselling Cell organized awareness programmes focusing on mental health, emotional wellness, positive thinking, and self-care practices. These programmes encouraged students to recognize the importance of mental well-being and seek support whenever necessary.

Stress Management and Examination Readiness Sessions

Special sessions on stress management and examination preparedness were conducted before semester examinations. Students were guided on effective study techniques, time management, concentration strategies, and methods to manage examination-related stress and anxiety.

Motivation and Personality Development Programmes

Motivational sessions were organized to inspire students to develop a positive attitude, goal-oriented mindset, and leadership qualities. Resource persons highlighted the importance of self-discipline, confidence building, communication skills, and personal excellence in achieving success.

Career Counselling and Future Planning

In collaboration with the Career Guidance and Placement Cell, career counselling programmes were conducted to help students identify career opportunities, higher education options, competitive examinations, entrepreneurship prospects, and emerging employment trends.

Life Skills and Positive Relationship Awareness Programmes

Interactive programmes were organized to enhance students' life skills, decision-making abilities, emotional intelligence, communication skills, and interpersonal relationships. Awareness was also created regarding responsible use of social media, cyber safety, and ethical conduct.

Parent–Teacher–Student Interaction and Guidance

The Counselling Cell actively participated in Parent–Teacher Meetings to discuss students' academic progress, attendance, behavioural concerns, and personal development. Parents were encouraged to collaborate with faculty mentors and counsellors to ensure holistic student development.

Support for Slow Learners and At-Risk Students

Special counselling and mentoring interventions were undertaken for slow learners and students facing academic or personal difficulties. Continuous monitoring, remedial guidance, and motivational support contributed to improved academic performance and student confidence.

Outcomes

- Increased awareness among students regarding mental health and emotional well-being.
- Improved self-confidence, communication skills, and positive outlook among students.
- Enhanced ability to manage academic stress and examination pressure.
- Strengthened mentoring and student support mechanisms within the institution.
- Better academic adjustment and improved student engagement in campus activities.
- Development of life skills, emotional resilience, and responsible behaviour among students.
- Creation of a safe, supportive, and student-friendly learning environment.

Best Practices

- Confidential and student-centric counselling services.
- Integration of mentoring and counselling support systems.
- Early identification and guidance for academically vulnerable students.
- Regular interaction with parents to strengthen student support.
- Promotion of preventive mental health and wellness initiatives.

Conclusion

The Students Counselling Cell successfully carried out its activities during the academic year 2025–2026 in alignment with the institution's mission of empowering young women through holistic education. Through counselling, mentoring, awareness programmes, and student support initiatives, the Cell significantly contributed to the emotional, academic, and personal development of students. The institution remains committed to strengthening counselling services and fostering a healthy, inclusive, and supportive campus environment.
